

Jennifer Fowler
Deputy Assistant Secretary
Office of Terrorist Financing and Financial Crimes
U.S. Department of the Treasury

Jennifer Fowler is the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Terrorist Financing and Financial Crimes at the U.S. Department of the Treasury. In this role, she is responsible for developing and implementing strategies to use financial sanctions and authorities to combat threats to U.S. national security, and for initiatives to safeguard the U.S. financial system from a range of illicit finance threats.

Fowler serves as the Vice-President of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and served as the head of the U.S. delegation to the FATF and represented the U.S. in the development of FATF's first-ever guidance on combating weapons of mass destruction proliferation financing. She is Co-Chair of the International Cooperation Review Group, and previously co-chaired the FATF Policy Development Group.

Fowler previously served as Chief of Staff and Senior Advisor to Treasury's Under Secretary for Terrorism and Financial Intelligence (TFI), as an Assistant Director in Treasury's Office of Terrorist Financing and Financial Crimes, as Treasury's liaison to the U.S. European Command in Stuttgart, Germany. She began her career at Treasury in the Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) in June 2001. Prior to joining Treasury, Fowler served as a Peace Corps volunteer in Mali and worked as a journalist in her home state of Georgia.

She holds a Master's of Science in Foreign Service from Georgetown University and a bachelor's degree from Wake Forest University.
